Press Release

FLAMETARD flame retardant products are now available nation wide.

Grover, North Carolina - June 25, 2002:

FLAMETARD CORP., distributors of commercial and residential flame retardants, is announcing the availability of its product line that is designed to save lives and property.

FLAMETARD is a mature product line. The products include flame retardants for wood (both Class "A" and "B"), flame retardants for Fabric (able to meet NFPA 701 standards) and Christmas tree flame retardant protection. Class "A" and Class "B" for wood are both UL tested and approved.

With the wild fire problem in the US as it is now, FLAMETARD CORP. is focusing on its Class "A" for Wood Flame Retardant.

While no product can guarantee that it will completely protect a structure, FLAMETARD for Wood Class "A" has some valuable properties to take into consideration.

Unlike some 'foams' out there that are good for 48 hours or so, FLAMETARD for wood Class "A" can be applied now and last for several years. (we recommend retreating wood roofs every year)

How does it work? FLAMETARD products intumesce (swell up and char) when heat comes in contact with them. This dual action keeps the oxygen and fuel apart, and insulates the fuel from the heat.

What we like best about the product is that it greatly slows down the initial ignition of the structure. If we can keep it from igniting long enough, then the structure is saved completely. If it should ignite, the burn rate is slowed considerably, giving the firefighters more time to save it.

In a wild fire situation, burning embers can be sent miles ahead of a fire line. When they land on an unprotected roof, a structure fire happens. If we can keep the embers from igniting the roof, then there is a very good possibility of saving the structure.

We believe that homeowners can take a proactive approach to fire safety. Don't wait till a fire is in the area, treat your home while you have the luxury of time on your side.

We are available for interviews and/or demonstrations of the products.
